

Prof. Highbrow says this is the most important word in our language for the merchant to study. And to illustrate the word in every sale, to see that every customer will naturally use that word in referring to every purchase.

Satisfaction to each customer is our motto.

If by any accident or by any carelessness on the part of our salesmen you fail to get satisfaction with everything you buy here, simply call our attention to the fact and we'll appreciate it as a favor and instantly see that everything is made satisfactory to you.

THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

TUESDAY, APRIL 5, 1910.

Entered at the post office at Barre as second-class matter.

Published every week-day afternoon.
Subscriptions: One year, $3.50; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.

Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

5,605

Roosevelt is still hunting big game.

Tuffs college's weekly bequest was forthcoming, as usual.

The Middlebury man who built a chair for President Taft had courage.

Montpelier is already talking about its "new opera house." An opera house is something which Montpelier can't very well do without; that's certain.

People were forgetting that Jim Burke is mayor of Burlington yet—forgetting till he broke out in a new spot. Now they know he is the same old Burke.

Washington county road commissioners and others interested in good roads should bear in mind the county meeting to be held at the G. A. R. hall in Montpelier to-morrow, beginning in the morning and continuing through the day.

Vermont's "oldest lawyer," who died yesterday, "used tobacco from youth" and "liquor in moderation." Varying the monotony of usual obituaries of the extremely aged.

They are beginning to bet red apples over on the west side that such and such a city will have its new hotel first. Better put the apples up in preserves, to help out the menu when the hotels are built.

After fifteen months' imprisonment, a Massachusetts woman has been released; they have just found out that she didn't do it. Punished fifteen months for nothing, then! That looks like a long term for such an offense.

As the New York Globe says, King Edward, the kaiser and the French president may well brace themselves for the shock which will come when T. R. sets foot in their precincts. It is always accompanied by the sound of breaking crockery.

WHAT IS A WOMAN, PHOENIX?

"Editor of The Times:
"I am trying to define a woman." You have learned that a man who can vote and don't is a copier. Now is a woman who would vote, but can't, a cipher minus the rim?
"Yours for light on a very dark and uncertain subject."
Annette W. Parmelee,
"Barnstable Falls, Vt."

Let us encroach on the distinct province of the Brattleboro Phoenix, we are reluctantly forced to decline to answer the above query, and we turn the interrogation over to The Phoenix, trusting that full and complete information will be furnished to Mrs. Parmelee on "dark and uncertain" woman. What say you?

ALIENIST TESTIMONY.

There is no particular news in it, but another Vermont murderer has been declared insane. Mikales, who committed a murder in Barre last July, has been declared mentally irresponsible by the authorities at the Waterbury insane hospital, where he has been under observation for several months. It does not seem to make a great deal of difference, anyway, just what particular means are taken to "cheat the noose" in this state.

It is not just clear what the contemporary is driving at in the above paragraph. If it means by "cheating the noose" that subversive methods are being employed to sidetrack justice in this case, The Times does not believe such to be the fact. The employee of the state at the Waterbury asylum would not be likely to give any but their firm convictions on the observation of the young man now in their charge, for, aside from their obligation to their duty, there is another reason why they should report only in accordance with their convictions, and it is that every time they pass judgment on the mental status of subjects their professional reputation is at stake, and no honest professional man desires to have his decision proven wrong, either by after-events or by other councils of alienists. Hence, they will strive to reach the correct conclusion. The exact decision of the present council in the Mikales case has not been divulged and will not be until the case comes to trial; but The Times has confidence in the integrity of the men who have been observing the young man, and that the testimony, which they will bring, will be in accord with the honest convictions.

Perhaps the language used by the contemporary was merely unfortunate and was not designed to imply that justice, pure and simple, was to be set aside, or that there was thought of such a thing.

Fish in His Element.

Hon. Frank L. Fish of Vergennes delivered an address on the history of American banking, at the annual banquet of the Springfield (Mass.) chapter of the American Institute of Banking, and evidently made an excellent impression on his hearers, judging from the newspaper reports. His friends in Addison county are pleased to note his success as a public speaker.—Middlebury Register.

Rutland Not Worrying.

There is general approval here of Mayor Carpenter's judgment in refusing to be drawn into the controversy, but there would have been no question as to the legitimacy of his act, providing he had selected the third commissioner. The selection would have become the choice of the judges and their appointees—not the mayor's.

There is a general feeling here that the deadlock of the two judges might be broken if they would consent to the similar selection of the third commissioner by a committee of five, seven, nine, or more, citizens of Rutland, to be named by them. The selection of such committee would, likewise, become the selection of the judges and their appointees. Why wouldn't this be a good way out of it?

Another suggestion has been made that seems fair: Let Judge Redfield name 25 of the representative business or professional men of Rutland, or recognized probity, and give his conference the privilege of selecting any three of them, to be named as commissioners. Or, vice versa, let Judge Plumley make up such representative list and let him permit Judge Redfield to select the three men to be appointed.

Either suggestion seems to be both fair and feasible.

As to the legality of the appointment of commissioners after the expiration of the sixteen days prescribed by law, there doesn't seem to The News to be a scintilla of doubt on that point. The people of Rutland voted for license and are entitled to have it, and will have it. The disagreement of two men will not be permitted to vitiate that expressed wish of the people. The judges will get together on some fair basis. No doubt of that!

But the glaring deficiency of the license law, as relating to the appointment of commissioners, will be remedied by the next general assembly.—Rutland News.
